

English – Stories with Familiar Settings

This week and next we are going to be focusing on fiction and stories with familiar settings. I have chosen for us to use the Horrid Henry books as a basis to form our writing on. I know that lots of you love these stories and I do too! They are full of different settings and creative, fun sentences which is what we are going to be working on.

Go through the PowerPoint each day and complete the tasks set to you. The Learning Objectives are written at the top of the slide for each day – think about this as you complete your work and always refer back to this.

Sometimes there are sheets provided for you to work on, other times I would like you to work in your book or on lined paper. Always remember to write the LO and date.

In your writing at home, remember to consider your success criteria. Remember to always use neat, joined handwriting. Sentences should almost always be complete with capital letters and the correct form of punctuation.

It might be helpful to refer to our target sheets here:
<http://www.kewriverside.richmond.sch.uk/page/?title=English+%2D+Writing&pid=1552>

Hold yourself to your highest standard and have fun! 😊